

Advance Diploma in NGO Management

NGOs (Non-Government Organizations) are critical in making the lives of needy people better and making the country a better place. NGO Management (NGO-M) becomes a critical topic then. The course deals with models of sustainable living, strategic consumption, operational planning, communication, and leadership. The objectives of an NGO Management course is to provide managerial knowledge and skills related to NGOs to the students who opt for it. Ever since India's independence, NGOs have played a vital role in helping the needy in the country. They provide aid to the people that need it and lift the socio-economic status of thousands of people. They work for a wide variety of socio-economic issues and provide relief through donations in their funds. These NGOs can work in several sectors, such as child development, women's rights, mid-day meals, sponsoring education, malnutrition, poverty, etc.
